

A black and white photograph of a woman in profile, looking out a window. Her hand is pressed against the glass. Outside the window, a large, bright full moon is visible in the dark night sky. The scene is dimly lit, with light from the moon and the window illuminating the woman's face and hand.

MISSING YOU

Though my heart is always with you
Through the nights and all the days
I miss you so despairingly
My simple solid stay
Often on a day like this
Far off in my mind somewhere
I often watch the wind
Wispig through your hair
Till I see you once again
Until another morn
I'll think of you and write to you
Of this one heart that's torn
